

INTRODUCTION

Apes of Zamoonda (AOZ) is an NFT collection that tells the story of the black race. The collection projects African culture in a realistic but positive light with the end goal being to create a voice for Africans and a new channel of expression and storytelling that had never existed before.

This collection shows the colorful and vibrant colors of African attire – both traditional and modern. AOZ brings a fusion of African fashion, music, pop culture and social issues along with unique and innovative utility to create the first African meme NFT collection.

The NFT space is currently largely under-represented in the black community with less than 12% of the market. We are hoping to reach beyond just people of African descent and create an experience never seen before on the blockchain.

INTRODUCTION

This meme NFT project borrows from popular culture without breaking any rules. Proper legal due diligence has been done to ensure this.

The name Apes of Zamoonda is a fictional Africa that is loosely coined from "Zamunda" in the movie series Coming to America, which tells a very common African story. It rides on the concepts of "moon" and "apes" which are popular lingo in the crypto and NFT space.

It also takes the shape of BAYC with original facial features.

THE STORIES

All AOZ NFTs will be used to tell stories of the African race, both fictional and factual, from an educational and inspirational point of view. Some examples of topics for such stories are Stolen African art, pan-Atlantic slave trade, Apartheid, the American Civil Rights Movement, the Rise of Afrobeats, Coups and bad Governance in Africa and so on.

There are an almost unlimited number of stories that can be told, and we plan to tell them with static comic strips at the beginning then advance to animated cartoons. We also plan to drop several (sub) collections focusing on various aspects of our culture and honoring key figures that played critical roles in the African journey like Nelson Mandela, Fela Anikulapo Kuti and also celebrate modern African heroes like Elon Musk (yes, he's African), Burna Boy & Akon.

OUR VISION

Our vision is to become the Simpsons of Africa.

AOZ will become a household name among Africans and our NFTs will be the superstars of the future.

We are going to the moon, literally.

THE ART

Inspired by BAYC, our art has custom clothing pieces worn by African tribes all over the continent – from Morocco to Nigeria to Kenya and South Africa mixed and matched into a colorful exhibition of the metaverse's most swaggered out apes.

These traditional pieces are combined with modern accessories and rare items.

Our first collection will have 3333 apes including rare apes wearing only one tribe's attire and some famous African celebrity lookalike apes as legendary items.

THE ART

The first collection will include woman apes to set the stage for a wide array of storytelling possibilities as part of our utility.

We are also dabbling with using real life locations in changing NFT backgrounds as part of an experimental dynamic continental migration feature.

THE ART

As a meme NFT project, its only right we pay homage to the greats. These legendary items will be sold by auction and proceeds will go towards recovery of African art.
